IN NEW YORK GOES ON SHOW THE BRAIN

How Science Inspires Art

"Science inspires art - The Brain" is the exhibition curated by Stephen Nowlin and Anjan Chatterjee at the New York Hall of Science until March 29.

The 29 selected artists coming from all over the world have been reflecting for a long time on their emotions' nature and on how science hasn't been able to fully reveal the brain's operation yet. The 42 2 dimension exposed works are the result of a co-operation between artists and scientists who worked on a laboratory's series of experiments to turn them into an inspiration's source. Among the artists of the exhibition, Franco Tosi is the only Italian one.
